

Eberwein-Howe house gets historic improvement grant

By Alice Fugate
Chesterfield Landmarks Preservation Commission

The Eberwein-Howe House, located at 1734 Old Baxter Road, is the 2009 recipient of the City's historic improvement matching grant.

The Chesterfield Landmarks Preservation Commission established this grant program to support the preservation and restoration of historic structures and archaeological sites. Structures must be listed on the Chesterfield Historic Register in order to qualify for grants.

The Eberwein-Howe House started as a log cabin built around 1850 by Henry Eberwein Sr. Later, clapboard siding was added over the exterior logs, but the original log cabin ceilings remain visible inside.

The original entry may have been a so-called dog run, an open area between two structures that was used for outdoor cooking to minimize heat and fire risk. The Howes purchased the home in 1933 and modernized the structure, adding a bathroom, bedroom, and garage.

Today, the Eberwein-Howe House is in the hands of Charlene and Al Doty. They used the historic improvement grant to replace an old cracked driveway. They also added transoms and a storm door to protect the 1930s-era front door.

Parkway medians will be enhanced

Medians in Chesterfield Parkway are getting a makeover.

The City Council recently approved a proposal brought forth by the Chesterfield Beautification Committee to enter into an agreement with St. Louis County for maintenance and enhancement of the Chesterfield Parkway medians.

The committee adopted a consensus position that improvements to the Chesterfield Parkway medians were a "critical component of the City's vision to create a unified, attractive and sustainable landscape" for those medians, in order to "enhance the areas most visible to citizens and visitors coming into the heart of Chesterfield."

Over the past year the Beautification Committee has worked with City staff and consultant Land Design Services to identify opportunities for proposed landscape planting, irrigation and hardscape features which would enhance approximately two miles of

Many accomplishments makes 2009 a year in which we can take great pride

Chesterfield is truly an amazing community. This year, we have been fortunate to accomplish many good and lasting things, which continue to position us as one of the premier communities in the country. Whether it's bringing public art to the region, building new streets, opening a new business thereby expanding our economic opportunities, or adding new parks, we are a community committed to enhancing – everyday – the quality of life for all our residents. In this, my annual year-end review, I'd like to highlight some of those accomplishments for you.

The signature cultural achievement of 2009 has been the addition of The Awakening sculpture to our new Downtown Chesterfield area. This sculpture and the 20 traveling life-like sculptures placed about town created quite a buzz and garnered Chesterfield Arts and the City a great deal of media attention. The Awakening was made possible only by the beneficence of Louis Sachs, founder of Sachs Properties, who, more than 40 years ago, laid out the first vision of what has become Chesterfield. This sculpture area, adjacent to Central Park, is destined to become our central gathering place, where people can experience art, walk on a trail, see a play, or fish in a lake. You'll see it begin to take shape in 2010 with the creation of the amphitheater, trails, and other amenities. In order to guide the future of public art in Chesterfield, our staff worked with Chesterfield Arts, many Chesterfield residents, and a consultant – VIA Partnership – to create a Public Art Master Plan that I am proud to say was adopted by the City Council this fall.

Another partnership resulted in a significant access improvement to I-64 with the construction of the Spirit of St. Louis interchange. MoDOT, St. Louis County, Duke Realty and the City partnered to fund this interchange that will improve access to the west end of the Chesterfield Valley and Spirit Airport, along with the Chesterfield Valley Athletic Complex. Additionally, the Public Works division bid and constructed two miles of street reconstruction projects, replaced 1.75 miles of sidewalks, and constructed the new Veteran's Place Drive in the Downtown Chesterfield area.

In an effort to communicate with our residents more effectively, a new City website was rolled out in 2009, enabling us to add real-time information more easily. It contains information about everything the City has going on and includes a Community Calendar, so you can know about activities and events around Chesterfield. Recognizing the importance of social media, the Police Department began Twittering to give you traffic and public safety updates.

With the help of residents and businesses, the Planning Department updated the City's Comprehensive Plan and worked with St. Louis County to improve the coordination of occupancy permit and building permit approval. Our successful Planner of the Day program responded to over 1,000 requests for assistance this year.

The Parks & Recreation Department found a new home with the completion of a facility that houses all employees and equipment in one area. Four new ball fields were constructed at the Chesterfield Valley Athletic Complex, in addition to the paving of several new parking areas. Many of you are enjoying the latest addition to the Monarch-Chesterfield Levee Trail, which is located adjacent to Edison Avenue between Long Road and Baxter Road. Perhaps most importantly, this year we added significantly to our parks inventory by purchasing ground for future use. I am proud that the City completed the purchase of the 18-acre Eberwein Farm at Baxter and Old Baxter roads – a goal of the City from its inception in 1988. Also, we have purchased the remaining 30-acre property to the east of the Chesterfield Valley Athletic Complex, thereby completing the original commitment to the people of Chesterfield when the voters approved Proposition P in support of the parks in November 2004. Finally, we have entered into a lease with an option to purchase the property at the northeast corner of Baxter Road and Old Chesterfield Road at the entrance to Chesterfield Valley. The intention at that location is to have a park, which will include a trailhead for the Levee Trail.

The Police Department reached a milestone and celebrated its 20th anniversary as a department in June. I believe it says a great deal about the quality of our department and our officers that 31 of the original 50 department members who began service with the City on June 1, 1989, are still serving the people of Chesterfield. Already internationally accredited, this year the Police Department received the highest honor in the International Law Enforcement Community by being named a "Flagship Agency" by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies. Finally, we were proud to have a member of our command staff attend the prestigious FBI National Academy.

This year, we worked to partner with other community agencies to foster the sense of community that we so often discuss at neighborhood and subdivision meetings. Our 4th of July event is known as one of the best in the region, and with festival events such as Taste of Chesterfield, Strassenfest, Play Day in the Park, Turkey Trot, Tree Earth & Arbor Day Events and Safety Town, we are working toward bringing you family-oriented events that can be enjoyed by everyone.

As proud as I am of the accomplishments, they have taken on additional significance this year because of the economic challenges being faced by all cities, including ours. While the economy has been, and will continue to be, a great concern to all of us, I am proud to report that the financial condition of your city government is strong. We have planned diligently since the last economic downturn eight years ago to build our fund reserves to record levels and enable your city government to continue to provide the high level and high quality of services you have come to expect, all while keeping your taxes among the lowest in the St. Louis region.

While you may hear in the coming weeks that our expenditures are slightly higher than our revenues, please understand that this is precisely what we plan for during the good years so that we can maintain the highest level of services to you without any additional tax burden on our residents. This is the purpose of building our fund reserves to record levels - the proverbial "saving for a rainy day." It is this discipline that has allowed Chesterfield to become and remain the only city in Missouri with Moody's highest bond rating.

In closing, I express my thanks to all of you for your invaluable support over the years. And to all of you who find a way to give back to the community in so many wonderful ways, it is really because of your volunteer spirit that Chesterfield is now so widely viewed as one of the best places to live.

As we look toward 2010, I renew to each of you that we will be working every day - every day - to make Chesterfield an even better place to be.

With my best wishes for a wonderful season and a healthy and prosperous New Year,

CENSUS

Counting ...

Citizens:

Stand up and be counted in the 2010 United States Census

The U.S. Census – a count of everyone residing in the United States – will be conducted in 2010. The 10-question, one-page questionnaire will be sent to households by U.S. Mail in March. Census workers will then visit households which do not return the questionnaire to ensure a complete count of residents.

It is very important that all residents be counted, as this helps local decision makers plan new roads, medical facilities, child-care facilities, senior citizen facilities, schools, businesses and more. Additionally, each year the federal government allocates funds to states and communities based, in part, on census data.

And more importantly for Chesterfield, the population figure is used to determine our share of the St. Louis County sales tax pool. Since we are a pool city, Chesterfield does not keep all of its sales tax but instead contributes sales tax to a county account, from where it is redistributed to pool cities based on population.

So, be counted in 2010. It's very important to you, your neighbors and your community.

Trees:

City is compiling streetside inventory of 'wooden residents'

How many trees line the streets of Chesterfield? The City will soon know.

Public trees provide more than the traditional values of aesthetics and shade. They also provide numerous environmental benefits, including temperature moderation and cooling, reduction of air pollutants and energy conservation. Trees also increase property values.

Unlike other components of the City's infrastructure, trees, with proper care, will continue to increase in value each year. The City has taken a proactive step to effectively manage its urban forest by hiring the Davey Resource Group to perform an inventory of street trees located within the public right of way – the area between the sidewalk and the street.

The inventory collects data on each tree, including location, species, size, condition, and other pertinent information. This inventory will assist in effectively managing street trees and will help budget and plan removals, schedule tree maintenance, and increase species diversity. To help cover the cost of this inventory, the city applied for and was awarded a $10,000 Tree Resource Improvement and Maintenance (T.R.I.M.) Grant through the Missouri Department of Conservation.

The inventory began this fall.

The Awakening

Chesterfield unveils much-anticipated giant sculpture by Seward Johnson

A giant arrived in Chesterfield this fall, drawing the eyes of the region to this very out-of-the-ordinary addition.

The Awakening by American sculptor Seward Johnson arrived via two flatbed trucks from The Johnson Atelier in Hamilton, NJ, on Sept. 21. The 4,700-pound cast aluminum sculpture found a home near Chesterfield Parkway West and Lydia Hill Road, adjacent to Chesterfield's Central Park. But it remained covered until the grand unveiling Oct. 10.

The clear, October morning provided the perfect backdrop for a community celebration that included hands-on art activities for all ages, such as the "My Awakening"

T-shirt contest where participants interpreted the sculpture in a do-it-yourself T-shirt design. Other activities included a 3D flag sculpture project, led by the National Charity League, and the chance for people to sign their names as a part of the "My Awakening" sunset mural on a St. Louis Arts in Transit Metro bus.

World percussion ensemble JOIA led an upbeat musical parade, as members of the Chesterfield Arts Board of Directors, Mayor John Nations, children from the community, and sculptor Seward Johnson uncovered the 70-foot long, 17-foot high giant.

Several thousand people participated in the event and

A small boy, apparently shorter than one foot, admires the large American flag which added to the atmosphere of the unveiling ceremony.

enjoyed the chance to be some of the first to interact with the sculpture and snap fun photos. The sculpture is a permanent addition to the Chesterfield Arts Outdoor Art collection, a landmark in the community, and another step toward making Chesterfield a "city of art."

View the plein air works of 17 regional artists celebrating The Awakening and outdoor art in Chesterfield Arts' Outside In exhibit in the gallery Nov. 13 through Jan. 2.

More arts: Chesterfield Arts presents a classic, holiday favorite, The Nutcracker, on Sunday, Dec. 20. This family-friendly performance includes dancers from Alexandra Ballet with Tony Award-winning guest artist Lara Teeter in the role of Godfather Drosselemeyer. . . . Creative opportunities will also abound in 2010, as visual art classes for all ages and in all mediums begin again at Chesterfield Arts in January. For more information about performances, classes, outdoor art in Chesterfield, or more ways to get involved, visit www.chesterfieldarts.org, call 636.519.955, or email info@chesterfieldarts.org.

The Herd is Growing... THF Realty, developer of the Chesterfield Commons, installed four additional colorful horses behind the shopping center along Edison Road. Look for them at Edison and RHL Drive, with some also grazing on the berm behind Sam's Club. The kinetic sculptures of these lifesize animals were created by Santa Fe artist, Frederick Prescott.

By Alice Fugate

Chesterfield Landmarks Preservation Commission

Nominations for the fifth annual Chesterfield Ancient History-Leonard Blake Award are now being accepted.

"Ancient" is defined as involving cultures which existed in this area prior to European contact.

Past recipients include amateur archaeologist Richard Martens, Parkway school teacher Michelle Weisenborn, home builder Dennis Hayden, and HEC-TV.

Nominations for the award are due Feb. 10 and will be reviewed Chesterfield Parkway West medians – from I-64/Highway 40 to Olive Boulevard and from I-64 to Fontaine Drive.

Kay Folsom, Chair of the Beautification Committee, said: "Early in the process, the committee came up with an overall landscape design concept. This concept was to create a clean and impressive landscape image within the City's Parkway system."

As part of this plan, a preliminary plant material list was developed, which specified drought tolerant and hardy trees, shrubs and perennial flowers. Special attention was given to plant material which would produce seasonal color, compact growth and would be salt and pollution tolerant. Annual planting beds would be featured at the ends and middle of the medians to provide accent color and attention.

Work on the enhancements is expected to begin in late winter to spring, starting with the removal of all existing trees and bushes. This will be followed by installation of irrigation, turf renovation, excavation, bed preparation, and addition of top soil. Next will be the incorporation of trees, shrubs, grasses, turf grass and mulch. The project is expected to be completed by late spring of 2010.

"The Beautification Committee is extremely excited about this project and is convinced that, upon its completion, Chesterfield's overall quality of life will be greatly enhanced," Folsom noted.

International visitors: Belgian officers pay a call on Chesterfield Police

Police in Brussels, Belgium, may soon be using some techniques learned from Chesterfield officers.

The city recently hosted three police officers from Brussels, following a visit by Chesterfield officer Steve Aspinall, whose parents once resided in Brussels. Aspinall met the Belgians, who were so interested in Aspinall's stories of American policing that they decided to visit and see for themselves.

The Belgium officers, Kim Vogels, Alex Mpotos, and Mike Arnouw, were most impressed with the Chesterfield Ride Along program and a visit with Chief Ray Johnson. They recounted stories of their home country and the difficulty of policing in their environments as compared to Chesterfield. The officers spoke of policing in communities where the support for the police was not as obvious as here.

The officers were given patches and Chesterfield Police Challenge coins as well as other police memorabilia. Their next stop was New York City before heading home.

13th edition of Citizen Police Academy gears up in February

PUBLIC WORKS

Tips for clearing snow from driveways

Clearing snow from the street frequently results in blockage of driveways that you've worked hard to clear. Many times during a snowfall, a plow truck will go by and fill in the end of a freshly cleared private driveway with snow.

The City understands that this can be very frustrating, but snow must be plowed from the center line of the street to the curb, and crews are unable to remove snow windrows from the 16,000 private driveways in Chesterfield.

To help reduce the size of the windrow of snow across your driveway, you can clear an area of the street gutter 10 to 15 feet in advance of your driveway. In doing this, you create a "pocket" for the snow to drop off before the plow reaches your driveway. Please be extremely careful when working next to the roadway, especially when plowing operations are in progress.

Parking in the snow

When those snowflakes start falling, watch where you park! Certain Chesterfield streets identified by signs are designated snow routes. City ordinances prohibit parking on these routes during snowfalls of two inches or more.

Parking that obstructs emergency snow removal equipment is prohibited on all streets during any snow event. If a car is on the street, it can be ticketed and/or towed. Plus, if snow plows have to go around a car, the vehicle may be buried by an icy mound of packed snow.

Parking can resume once the street has been cleared curb to curb.
